Resume check. 60 seconds.

One fix, one rewritten bullet, then the pitch. Keep it friendly and quick.

01 Ask

> “Want a free 60-second resume check? Open your resume or your LinkedIn on your phone.”

02 Read the top third, about 10 seconds

That is about how long a recruiter looks first. Then give one fix, the first one that applies:

Objective statement	Cut it. One line on what you do goes at the top instead.
Bullets start with “Responsible for”	Start with a verb: led, built, ran, wrote, organised.
No numbers	Add one: how many people, how much money, how often.
“Proficient in MS Word”	Cut basic tools. List what the role asks for.
Email like xX_gamer_Xx	Use the school email or firstname.lastname.
Two pages or more	One page. Cut the oldest and the least related first.
LinkedIn headline “Student at ADMU”	Say what you do: course, plus the 2 things you want to be known for.

03 Rewrite one bullet together, with AAA

Attention
The problem you faced.

Approach
What you did about it.

Arrival
What changed.

04 Close

> “That was one bullet in a minute. In 4 sessions we do your whole resume, LinkedIn, and intro. Here’s a flyer, and the QR is right here. With friends? Barkada of 3 is ₱1,999, ₱666 each.”
